History OAKWOOD CEMETERY

Established in 1849
400 North Palace Avenue
West Oakwood at North Palace

Oakwood Cemetery is listed No. 15 with The Tyler Historic Landmark Commission.

Recorded Texas Historic Landmark
Oakwood Cemetery was designated a Historic Texas Cemetery in 1999.

Isaac Lollar sold to John Lollar of Smith County, Texas, 640 acres of land on October 2, 1846. The public square for the City of Tyler was later laid out on part of this land. On September 22, 1849, John Lollar conveyed to John Madison Patterson in the Isaac Lollar Survey "345 acres, five acres of land in the southwest corner... not intended to be conveyed by these presents."

The five acres was deeded to the City for a cemetery. It was known as "Lollar's Cemetery" for a number of years, then "City Cemetery", and finally in 1904 it became "Oakwood Cemetery."

Over the years, additional land was donated, or purchased and added to the cemetery. Oakwood Cemetery proper of 19.5 acres has over 2000 inscribed tombstones.

Oakwood Cemetery is a City Cemetery, and is maintained by the Tyler Parks Department.

In 1997, members of the ~~Mollie Moore Davis Chapter 217~~, United Daughters of the Confederacy, and other interested citizens formed the Oakwood Cemetery Restoration Committee, and have worked with the Tyler Parks Department since that time, working to make Oakwood a beautiful historical cemetery.

HISTORIC TEXAS CEMETERY
The Texas Historical Commission recognized Oakwood Cemetery in November 1999. A plaque was placed at each of the five entrances in June 2001. The designation is reserved for cemeteries at least 50 years old and deemed worthy of recognition and preservation for their historic associations.

MAUSOLEUM
The only mausoleum in Oakwood is the final resting place of Nancy Othaolious "Otha" Reynolds Parish and her husband Daniel Webster Parish. (Note the beautiful ironwork on the door and the stain glass in the west window.) This structure is located in plot 7. Mr. Parish died in 1902 and his wife lived another 54 years. No children were born to this union. Mrs. Parish who came to Tyler in 1897, left a large bequest to the West Erwin Christian Church. These funds were used to build three other Christian churches.

OLDEST MARKER
The oldest marker in Oakwood is that of P.M. Scott, a little four year old boy, born in 1848 and died in 1852. This marker is located in Plot 3.

DOGWOOD TREE
Located in plot 6, this dogwood estimated to be over 100 years old, is a spectacular sight in the springtime when it is in full bloom. Don't miss this display of white blooms come spring. (Late March-Early April).

UNKNOWN SOLDIER
This distinct above the ground burial is easy to spot with its brick exterior. There is no marker, name or date with this grave, only a CSA foot marker. It is located in plot 3.

GOVERNOR HUBBARD
Richard Bennett Hubbard came to Texas in 1853. His life was spent in the practice of law, political service and he was instrumental in bringing rail lines to the area. He became the Governor of Texas in 1863 and in later years became the Ambassador to Japan. Tyler was his home and Oakwood is the final resting place for him and his immediate family in plot 3.

SUNDIAL
In 1922 this sundial was placed in plot 4 by the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Its regent in 1922 was Jennie Mae Perry, a longtime teacher in Tyler. She is buried in plot 1 with her family.

SEXTON HOUSE
All that remains of the former Sexton House is the concrete slab in the south east corner of the cemetery. (A Sexton was the caretaker of the cemetery). The small building was destroyed by fire years ago, along with records and documentations. Future plans are to develop a welcome center kiosk at this location, to aide guests when they visit Oakwood.

THE BLACK SECTION
This monument was dedicated in 1997 and is located in the center of the section adjacent to Palace Avenue. Placed by Sterling Funeral Home of Tyler, it is dedicated to the unnamed black Americans buried in this plot.

JEWISH CEMETERY
Named for the Beth-El congregation, this cemetery's entrance is on Palace Avenue. A low retaining wall and iron fence separate it from Oakwood as Jewish custom requires separation of Jewish and non-Jewish graves. The oldest grave in Beth-El is that of a 19-year-old young lady who died 1884.

CONFEDERATE SOLDIER STATUE
Purchased in 1907 by the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy to honor the Confederate Soldiers of Smith County. It was a ten-year process to raise the funds for the statue ($2500). The marble base that supports the statue was made by Tyler's own Morris Brothers Marble works. The statue of the soldier was constructed by craftsmen in Italy.

SOLDIER'S PLOT
The remains of over 200 Confederate soldiers are buried in unmarked graves in the raised plot, east of Central Drive. The Confederate Soldier Statue and the First National Flag adorned above it is a fitting memorial to the soldiers who died in or near Tyler during the War Between the States.

THE GOODMAN ANGEL
Located in plot 4, this is one of the largest markers in Oakwood. The large Italian sculptured marble angel is the centerpiece of the Goodman family plot. It was erected by Dr. William J. Goodman after the death of his wife Pricilla in 1915. The cost was $2,000 and workmen used 300 pound cakes of ice to ensure that it would be placed exactly right.

ZINC MARKERS
At least three markers in plot 3 are made of zinc. Only one company made this durable type marker in various cities. The name "Monumental Bronze Co." and the city of origin can be seen at the base of the markers. Zinc markers were only made for 40 years between 1874-1914. Production stopped at the start of WWI as zinc was needed for the war effort. Look for the bluish grey color and a gentle tap on the marker will give you a metallic, hollow sound.
